OWNER OF CHAMPION WHITE SOX RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS.

Comiskey Says If His Great Team Cannot Win the World's Series Again He Hopes the New York Americans Can Achieve That Honor—Weight Limits in Pugilism.

There was all kinds of baseball gossip in circulation yesterday, owing to the presence of delegates from both of the big leagues here. At the Fifth Avenue Hotel Charles A. Comiskey, the owner of the Chicago White Sox, who won the world's championship last fall from the Chicago Nationals, was kept busy all day receiving congratulations from American League fans and others. Comiskey was in a happy frame of mind, and said that the Sox had won the great victory by superior ball playing and remarkable luck. "I hope my boys will win the American League pennant again," said Comiskey to a crowd of friends, "and I hope the Sox will put it all over the National League champions; but if we cannot win the pennant, let me say that I sincerely hope the New York team will be victorious. Frank Farrell and Griffith have made a good thing out of the face of obstacles, and they deserve success. If they had had a couple more good pitchers last season they might have beaten us out at bat. I will stand pat on the makeup of the Sox, because I don't believe they can be improved upon. By the way, I've just heard that Ed Walsh, my crack pitcher, whose contract was received by me to-day."

"Do you mean what you say about New York?" asked John F. Kilfoyle, one of the owners of the Cleveland team, who was at Comiskey's elbow.

"Indeed, I do," replied the old Roman, "and I have all the respect and friendship in the world for you, too."

"But where does Boston come in?" queried John J. Taylor, the owner of the Beantown club, which is at present undergoing a complete reorganization.

"That is all up to you," laughed Comiskey. "If you can win the pennant I'll be the first to take off my hat." It was all good natured joking and was the cause for much fun-making.

President Taylor of the Boston Americans was in conference a part of the day with his manager, Chick Stahl. Second Baseman Farris, who has been kicking over the traces, had just notified them that he would go to Little Rock with the team. They had also received a letter from Jimmy Collins stating that he had taken off twenty pounds during his recent stay at Hot Springs and that there was absolutely nothing in the matter with his knee, which kept him out of the game a great part of last year. As far as Shortstop Parent, who is holding off for a three years contract, a concerned, Taylor said that he was not worrying about him, but that he would fall in line in due time. Incidentally Taylor cornered Ned Hanlon, the manager of the Cincinnati team, and offered to trade Englebar even up for a young Californian named Kane that is on Hanlon's list.

"As I have seen neither of these men play," said Foye Ned with a grin, "I will have to decline your offer."

Hanlon incidentally says that his Cincinnati team is purely an experiment. He declares that he has secured a lot of young, ambitious players and that he hopes they will produce some efficient team play. Hanlon is member of the National League rule-making committee, which held a conference with the American League committee at the Waldorf last night.

"The rules will not be materially changed," said Hanlon, "but the American League men were in session at the Hotel Victoria. The same itself was never more popular than now. The pitchers have something of an advantage, it is true, but the closeness of the scores, due in a measure to the foul strike rule, keeps up the general interest in the games to the very last inning, for the reason that usually a team that is behind always has a chance to pull out a victory. In the old days when a batsman could foul off as many as three balls as he pleased and there was much heavy hitting, the games at times became one-sided in the early innings so that spectators grew weary and left the grounds. But the fact that the general public interest in the game is more intense than ever before is sufficient proof to me that no radical changes in the rules are needed."

President Johnson of the American League says that in his opinion the championship season will begin at least a week or ten days too soon. "In order to settle the dispute between the two leagues as to the opening of the championship season," he said, "I have tossed up a coin with Garry Hermann to see whether the first game should be played by both leagues on April 11 or April 12. And it was Hermann's luck to call the turn. So that it is, I believe, settled that the Chicago and Cleveland teams who win the battle from the Lakes begin to get in their work on the fans."

Clark Griffith had a long talk with Wild Conroy, the star left fielder of the New York Americans, in the afternoon, with the result that Conroy accepted terms and will sign a contract this morning. Robert L. Heide of the St. Louis Americans also succeeded in signing his crack pitcher, Glade, during the day.

At the National League meeting it was a noticeable fact that President C. H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club, and Manager Hanlon of the Cincinnati team did not speak as they met at the hotel conference. It was said in the day that he and F. A. Abell were confident that they would win all of the lawsuits against the Brooklyn club.

The assertion to the effect that Young Corbett was no featherweight champion because he beat McGovern at 126 pounds, weigh in five hours from the bout, instead of at the alleged legal limit of 122 pounds, ringside, inspires a man who has studied the matter carefully to send these views to THE SUN:

"If that proposition is correct, then McGovern was never featherweight champion, for when he was from Dixon the weight was 122 pounds ringside. It's a poor rule that will not work both ways, and if a fighter cannot win the title at 126 pounds, he cannot win it at 122. Therefore, Corbett and McGovern never held the title, and in order to determine who is the featherweight champion, it is necessary to go back and find out who boxer Dick Dixon at 122 pounds beat him at that weight, and, therefore, Dixon is still the champion. Of course that is an absurdity, but no more, so than the proposition that a championship cannot change hands except at ringside weight, which has no basis in precedent or rule. What is true of the featherweight class applies to every division of pugilism, and heavyweights in existence, and the alleged ringside limits have been honored only in the breach."

The announcement that Al Delmont, the clever New England bantam, had decided to go to London and fight Owen Moran for the championship of that country shows that the American has a great deal of courage. The experiences of American boxers that have gone to England to box in the National Sporting Club have been discouraging. Delmont will have to knock Moran down in order to get the decision, and if the bout is anywhere near even Moran will be declared the winner. Then, too, the financial results are liable to be disappointing. The London club offered Dick Murphy of this city a $500 purse to meet Moran, but after figuring awhile the club decided to back out.

"Why, cull, if I was to win and I got the long end of such a purse I'd have to learn to walk on the water before I could get back to the Bovey."

The anti-race-track bills recently introduced at Albany are slated to come up for a hearing before the Senate Committee some day this week. Members of the Jockey Club so far have refused to discuss them in any way. Horsemen believe that if they should be passed it would mean the end of the betting entirely on the "pod," as in England, but leading politicians held to the belief that there will be no adverse legislation.
